DANIELSON

Indications are that there will be more than 500 women voters in the town of Killingly by the time the presidential election is held in November. It is the first and second district alone 104 applications were received this week and there are already 266 women listed in this town as qualified to vote.

The entrance of this heavy contingent of voters into participation in state and national elections furnishes an element that is frankly puzzling to those who are sufficiently interested in political affairs as to make a close study of them and of causes and effects pertaining to them.

That the republicans easily have a big jump on the democrats in the chance of getting the majority of women who are voters in Killingly or who have made application to be made up to this time seems quite apparent to the most careful observers in town, on never can be sure of such things. The republicans too are being made a more elaborate effort to line up the women voters than there has been any indication that the democrats have planned to make, but many things can happen between now and the final day for making voters, so the entrance of the women into full political rights provides a real puzzle for those who have to know something as to where they stand before election day.

Legislators in all the towns hereabouts are making preparations to be in Hartford next Tuesday to attend the special session of the legislature, called to take such action as may be necessary to fully enfranchise qualified women of this state. That this special session is of more than ordinary interest to the legislators and to others not members of either house is attested by the fact that they all are planning to attend if that be at all possible, and it will be for the majority of times so closely interested.

PUTNAM

Five uncontested divorce cases were heard and granted by Judge William H. McBride at Friday morning's session of the superior court.

The case of Evelyn Bertha Stone of this city vs. Henry Elmer Stone, now of parts unknown, was the first heard. Mrs. Stone represented by Attorney Charles L. Terrey, said that her marriage with Stone took place February 12, 1915. Deserter was charged as having taken place December 25, 1915. A daughter having been born on Sept. 23, 1915 Mrs. Stone brought action against her husband on the ground of non-support, following his desertion, and in the Putnam city court he was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail at Brooklyn. After two weeks at the jail, Mrs. Stone was granted a divorce.

Mrs. Stone, who was married at 15 years of age, was given a divorce on the ground of desertion with the custody of her daughter, Louise Rowe, father of Mrs. Stone, and Mrs. Abbie LaPointe of this city, testified in her behalf.

The court and Attorney V. P. Quinn of Norwich, who represented the plaintiff in the next case, had considerable difficulty in satisfying themselves regarding the exact meaning of the words on a paper purporting to be a marriage certificate, the writing being in Latin, and in the contents of a letter, written in Greek, having an important bearing upon the proceedings.

However, after some delay, the papers were accepted as represented and John Velgolic of Moscow, was granted a divorce, on the ground of desertion, from Luce Velgolic, whom he married in a little town in northern Italy, on Feb. 12.

Velgolic testified that he came to this country three months after his marriage, leaving his wife until such time as he could get established here. In due time he sent for his wife to come to the United States, but she declined to do so, as she later did again, although he sent her the necessary money to make the trip. All of his efforts to induce her to come to America having failed, he applied for a divorce, which the court granted on the ground of desertion. Nick Rubinch and Nick Dapich were witnesses for Velgolic.

Another divorce granted on the ground of desertion was to Mrs. George Boucher of Plainfield, from William H. Boucher of New Bedford. Mrs. Boucher told with some emotion of her experiences with Boucher and among things that she told the court was that her husband had said to her when she remonstrated with him about his neglect of her that he preferred to lead a single life in his own way, than he was to go to work and that there were plenty of women who were willing to support him, all of which gave the impression that he must have been some peach, especially in view of the fact that he only gave his wife $10 during the entire period that they lived together.

Mrs. Boucher said that she was married in New Bedford Feb. 27, 1911 and that her husband deserted her July 6, 1914. During the time she lived with her husband she supported herself by working in the mill.

On the day that she was leaving New Bedford to come to Plainfield, she went to the hotel where her husband was staying, she testified, and pleaded with him to come back to her, telling him that she was in poor health and unable longer to support herself. "Go home," she quoted him as telling her, and the left and has since made her home in Plainfield. Mrs. Joseph Benard, of Plainfield, aunt of Mrs. Boucher, Mrs. Leah Plant, Plainfield, and Mrs. Rose Moffitt, also of Plainfield, all testified in Mrs. Boucher's behalf. Mrs. Boucher was given authority by the court to change her name to Georgianna Goodheart. She was represented by Attorney Barry.

Mrs. Alphonsa Arsenault of Danielson was another plaintiff who told of being deserted by her husband. The couple, who married in St. Maro, P. Q. more than twenty years ago were living in Athol, Mass. where the husband was engaged as a tailor, six years ago, when his business went bad.

Mrs. Arsenault testified that she was married in St. Maro, P. Q. more than twenty years ago were living in Athol, Mass. where the husband was engaged as a tailor, six years ago, when his business went bad.

Edward Lanihan, who has been employed as a clerk at Woodward's store, is to conclude his labors there to take a course in the school of Surgery, at Massachusetts university.

Henry Becklin, 63, formerly an overseer in a mill at East Killingly, died at the home of his daughter in Providence, R. I. in the same line, this plant has been closed for a number of weeks.

The republican senatorial caucus, Twenty-Eighth district, of which Killingly is a part, is to be held Saturday of next week at the municipal building in Putnam. Senator Archibald Macdonald will likely have the support of the Killingly delegation.

At the home of Miss Frances Danielson in Westfield, this (Saturday) afternoon the members of the beginners' and primary classes of the Bible school of the Westfield Congregational church will be entertained by the teachers.

The republican caucus made the following contingent Friday evening: Assessor, W. E. Labelle; board of relief, John H. Perry; selectmen, John A. Gilbert, James Barry; agent town deposit fund, Frank Preston; auditor, R. L. Wood; tax collector, George Williams; constables, John MacFarland, James Baggett, Fennell Wilcox, L. A. Barstow; registrars, D. Fred Kenworthy, F. L. Bennett, J. P. Smith; town school, Montmittie, Robert W. Boys, Arnold P. Rich. The only contest was over tax collector, George Williams winning over Joseph Bodo by a vote of 112 to 80. Charles S. Francis was chairman of the caucus and E. L. Darbie was clerk.

through the attorney was $15. Going to Athol to investigate they learned that Arsenault had taken his accounts from the lawyer's hands and had collected them himself. Mrs. Arsenault said she has not seen her husband in six years. It is believed that he went to Detroit. Miss Alice Arsenault, Henri Derosier and Mrs. Sadie Worthen testified in Mrs. Arsenault's behalf. She was represented by Attorney A. G. Bill. Judge McBride granted the divorce on the ground of desertion.

The last divorce of the day was granted Carrie M. Proctor, of this city, from William H. Proctor. This case occupied the attention of the court on Friday of last week, further evidence being taken this week. Frieda K. Sammis, a graduate nurse, testified that Mrs. Proctor was her patient and suffering from acute attack of a very painful ailment in 1915, and that during the period of Mrs. Proctor's illness Proctor treated his wife unkindly and unpleasantly. The witness testified that while she did not see Proctor strike his wife, Mrs. Proctor told her that he did so.

Mrs. Myra C. Squire, Bellows Falls, Vt., formerly of this city, and daughter of Mrs. Proctor, told of Proctor's cruel treatment. Attorney J. F. Carpenter represented Mrs. Proctor.

In the superior court here Friday morning there was a hearing in damages after default in the case of George Becla of North Grovesendale vs. Alfred Ruddy, New London, member of the state police department.

Becla, who was represented by Attorney Charles L. Terrey, testified that on the night of March 8, 1919, at which time there was a strike on at the plant of the Grovesendale company, he was riding about 10:30 at night in a closed car driven by John Talabac; the Ruddy signalled the car to stop as it was passing along the street; that he opened the door, climbed partly in and saw "There's the munched Becla on the jaw and knocked him dizzy. Becla said he had had no trouble with Ruddy and knew of no reason why the state policeman should assault him. Talabac, called as a witness, testified to substantially the same things as did Becla.

In addressing the court relative to the matter, Attorney Terrey called attention to the fact that Ruddy was not present or represented in court in his own defence and that he, Mr. Terrey, felt that the damages awarded should be substantial. Judge McBride said he would take the matter under consideration and reserve decision.

During Friday morning's session of the court Judge McBride ruled that no further order of notice would be necessary in the case of the divorce of Maggie Hammond vs. Edward E. Hammond. Mr. Terrey told the court that Hammond has been missing for years and is believed to be dead. He was last heard of in 1915, at Keene or Nashua, N. H., has since disappeared and has never been heard from. Mrs. Hammond lives in Danielson.

In addition to the assignments already made, Judge McBride Friday morning made these assignments: Thursday, Sept. 16, Alvin J. Dixon vs. Byron M. Lewis; Friday, Sept. 17, August Swanberg vs. Claus Crant.

It being quite impossible to arrange any business for next Tuesday court adjourned until next Wednesday morning when the case of Dominick A. Del Beshio vs. Charles E. Hopkins is assigned for the first case, with two other cases to follow.

It was announced Friday morning that a session of the superior court for naturalization purposes will be held here Tuesday, Sept. 21. There are applicants for naturalization here. Wednesday, Sept. 22, a session for naturalization will be held at Williamstown.

The Putnam Civic Club called a meeting for Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the rooms of the chamber of commerce, to discuss the registration of women as voters. It was pointed out that in order to qualify to vote at the town election in October, application must be made on or before Sept. 18. The question of whether the women who are on the school voters' list will have to register again cannot be decided until after the legislature meets in special session Sept. 14. Meanwhile many women school voters are sending in their applications in order to be sure of being fully qualified electors at the annual town meeting. There will of course be plenty of opportunity to register before the presidential election.
